HEADQUARTERS FIRST CORPS,) ARMY OF THE OHIO, CAMP NEAR CRAB ORCHARD, Oct. 18.

Col. Chas. B. Fry, Chief of Staff: I have the honor to report that, in com nce with written instructions from you dated October 7, 8 P. M., and received by me, at my camp at A. M. on the morning of the 8th, I marched at 5 A. M. on the Perryville road. I had but a portion of my corps with me, Rousseau's and Jackson's Divisions, the Second Division, under General Sill, having been detached to march upon Frankfort. The Tenth Division, General Jackson commanding, was entitled to the advance, but being nposed entirely of new troops, I ordered General Rousseau's Division to take the lead. General Rousseau was ordered to march with great caution, in view of the known presence of the enemy at Harrodsburg, and also of your letter informing me heavy that the point near Russeli's house that the enemy would resist your advance could not be held. Loomis' Battery, having into Perryville, and that you intended to exhausted all its long-range ammunition, attack them that day. Hearing reports of artillery in the morning, our march was hastened.

Maxville is equidistant from Harrodsburg and Perryville-the distance being ten miles. My instructions required me to advance on the Perryville road until I reached a point three or three and a half miles of Perryville, or until I came up abreast of Gilbert's corps. The head of my column reached the point designated at 10:30 A.

I rode forward, examined the ground, and saw a few of the enemy skirmishing with the left of Gilbert's corps. My attention was then directed to Gen. Gilbert's left. I saw his infantry in line about four or five hundred yards to our right. I called General Rousseau's attenright. I called General Rousseau's attention to this fact, marked out my line of battle and ordered him to form it. I directed Loomis' Battery to be brought in Russell's house. I had previously ordered Gen. Rousseau to throw forward a line of skirmishers to examine the woods on our left and front, and also sent Captain Wickliffe with his company of the Second Kentucky Cavalry to reconnoiter the ground on the left of the skirmishers. General Gay's Cavalry was skirmishers. General Gay's Cavalry was making a reconnoissance in front and toward Perryville. I was then well satisfied that the enemy, which had engaged Gilbert's left, had retired from the field. I then informed General Rousseau that my instructions required me to report in personnel to the regiments of this brigade were in second line and supporting the batteries. instructions required me to report in personne for the first was about the field but would return in a second line and supporting the batteries. I then galloped our Generals can hereafter be defeated. off to report to Gen. Buell, whose headquarters were about two and a half miles in rear of my right line. I received verbal from Gen. Buell to make a reconnoissance to Chaplin river. I immediately returned to my troops and found that Gen. Rousseau had advanced the line on the right, occupying a commanding and to the left of Russell's House. The enemy had placed three batteries in position and were firing upon his line. Loc mis' and Simonson's batteries were reply-There being then no infantry of the enemy in sight, I sent an order for these batteries to cease firing and economize ammunition. The command suffering greatly for water, I repaired to make the recon-noissance toward Chaplin river, as ordered. Having been informed by my guide, Capt. Beverly D. Williams, Assistant Quarter naster on General Jackson's staff, and also by Col. L. A. Harris, commanding Ninth Brigade, that, by moving a short distance to the left of the Perryville road, I could get high commanding ground for a portion of my line, I went forward in person, after having ordered a portion of the Thirty third Ohio into the woods on the right, as skirmishers, to ascertain if any of the enemy was present in that vicinity, to a point overlooking and within 600 yards of Chap-lin river. I then sent for Gens. Jackson and Terrell, showed them the water, marked their line of battle, ordered a battery to be posted on the line with strong supports. Gen. Terrell was ordered to advance a body of skirmishers cautiously, down the slopes of the hill to the water, as soon as his line was formed. During my presence on the ground, no enemy was seen, save some cavalry on the opposite hills across the river. who, I suppose, were threatening my train in the rear. A few well-directed shots from

A fierce onset being made on Terrell's Brigade and Gen. Jack son being killed at the first fire, this brigade in a few moments gave way in confusion. Gen. Terrell did everything in the power of man to steady them.

At this juncture-21 P. M .- seeing that I was assailed by at least three times my number, I dispatched my Aid-de-camp First Lieut. L. M. Hosea, Sixteenth U. S Infantry, to Gen. Sheridan, commanding Gen. Gilbert's left division, to request him turned. At 8 P. My I dispatched Captain

I then ordered Colonel Webster, of the Ninety-eighth Ohio, to move his troops to the right and repel this attack, his troops to the right and reper this attack, if possible, and it was in obeying this order that this gallant officer received a mortal wound. Returning to Russell's house, I ordered my Chief of Artillery, Major C. S. Cotter, to bring up a section of artillery, to stop their advance. I ordered Captain Loomis to reserve his canister for close work. This battery opened fire and repulsed this wicked attack for the first time. I then went to the point where the Dixieville and Springfield road crosses the Maxville and Perryville road. Near this point I met Captain Hoblitzell, with a brigade of General Robert B. Mitchell's Division, coming to re-enforce us. This brigade was commanded by Col. Gooding, of the Twenty-second Indiana, and consisted of his own regiment, the Fifty-ninth and Seventy-fifth Illinois, and Capt. O. F. Pinney's Fifth Wisconsin Battery. I ordered the posting of his infantry, and then placed Captain Pinney's Battery in position near the cross-roads, and in a small skirt of timber to the right. Gooding's attack, General James Stedman reported to me with his brigade of General Schoepf's Dito a position on the right and front of these to a position on the right and front of these batteries. M., when I rode to the left and found that the line there had been retired by Gen. Rousseau. Believing that the enemy would renew the attack at daylight, I ordered him to throw his line back, with his left resting on the Maxville and Perryvi le road, and the line extending to the right on commanding ground to the left of Stedman's brigade. his movement was executed about 12 o'elock at night.

When Gen. Terrell's Brigade gave way, portion of his troops fell back with him the position occupied by Stone's and Bush's batteries, and at this point, when in the act of rallying his broken troops, at 4 o'clock P. M., he was struck in the side by a fragment of a shell, carrying away a portion of his left lung. He died at 11 P. M.
When Terrell's Brigade gave way, seven guns of Parson's eight-gun battery fell into the hands of the enemy. At 6 P. M., four of the guns of Harris' Nineteenth Indiana were also taken by the enemy. The posting of Starkweather's brigade, Stone's and Bush's Batteries, saved my left, and secured to us the Maxville road, upon which stood our entire ammunition train and ambulances. The ground to the right of this road being rough and rugged, prevented the train being taken off the road and parked.

I previously stated that the firing on both sides ceased at dark. The enemy posted their pickets about fifty yards from urs, but the main body escaped during the night, and with such precipitation that they left their dead and wounded, and could not carry the guns captured from the new batteries from the field. The guns were all secured next morning, except two Napoleon guns of Parsons' Battery that were kindly exchanged by the enemy for two six-pound

River Rising at Pittsburg. Dispatches from Washington.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.

The Herald has from its correspondent a very full account of the late battle on the Charleston and Savannah railroad, referred to in the dispatches of Beauregard.

Our troops proceeded from Hilton Head on the night of the 21st, and were conveyed in 15 gunboats and war steamers to Mc-Kay's point, at the confluence of the Pocatatigo and Broad rivers. The object of this against the defendant. movement was to make a complete reconnoissance of Broad river and its tributaries to test practically the rapidity and safety with which a landing could be effected and to learn the strength of the enemy on the main land guarding the railroad between Charleston and Savanah, and to accomplish so much of the destruction of the railroad as could be done in a single day. In this attempt our forces were victorious, having met the enemy in large numbers. They drove them across the Pocotaligo river. Our loss, however, was very

Our soldiers and sailors fought splendidly, and our batteries were worked with great skill and effect. The Union forces were under command of Brigadier General J. M. Brannan, Gen.

troops were withdrawn in fine order, Gen. Ferry remaining on shore at McKay's point until the last man had embarked, when the buildings which had been occupied by rebel pickets were destroyed. Our loss was 15 killed, 106 wounded, and two missing. The troops engaged were the Forty-seventh Pennsylvania, Sixth Connecticut, Fourth New Hampshire, Fifty-fifth Pennsylvania, Seventh Connecticut, Seventy-sixth Penn-sylvania, Third New Hampshire, a detachment of the First Massachusetts Cavalry, a section of the First U. S. Artillery, Com-pany E, Third U. S. Artillery, Third Rhode Island Artillery, and the New York Volunteer Engineers.

Col. Chatfield, of the Sixth Connecticut, and Lieut. Col. Slidell, of the same, were among the severely wounded.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. With regard to the recent rumers of intended changes in high military places, the Washington Republican of yesterday says General Halleck will not go to the Department of the West, neither will General McClellan be made Commander-in

The Times says about the late battle Pocotaligo, and the story of the rebels gaining a victory, that our troops defeated them in the very hard-fought engagement which took place a week ago to-day, drove them from both their chosen positions, and compelled them to retreat in haste across the Pocotaligo river, at which they destroyed the bridge in their rear to prevent further pursuit; and although General Mitchel did not on this occasion succeed in carrying out the magnificent programme which he had concerved, he did make a complete reconnoissance of the region between the island of Port Royal and the Charleston railroad, and administered the rebels a thorough

Wm. H. Russell, communicating the flames to each of these boats. The result was a conflagration of the most terrific description, and which baffled the energies of the firemen to stay its progress. Each of the vessels named was destroyed together with their contents. Thousands of citizens crowded to the levee, despite a panic that had been created by the rumor that several hundred kezs of powder were on the H. D. Bacon. The flames caught and also consumed about six hundred bales of hemp and a hundred bales of cotton, besides a large quantity of miscellaneous freight piled on the levee. About a hundred bales of cotton were rescued by being rolled up toward Main street. The hulls of several of the boats will probably be saved. The harrowing sight was observed, by a number of horrified spectators, of a num-ber of cattle and hogs flying from the H. D. Bacon, partially roasted-their skin burned and peeling off.

The occasion passed off with far less personal casualty than was to have been apprehended. In one instance, a portion of spar fell upon a United States gunboat officer, whose name has escaped us, and considerably injured him.

The first Catholic church that was rected in this city, was between thirty-five and forty years ago. The edifice stood on the corner of Main and Tenth streets, immediately in front of where the paper mill now stands. Attached to the church, was the burying ground, which covered the space of about half the square-running towards Eleventh street, and back towards the river. Some years after the building was destroyed, houses, cottages and other buildings were erected on the grounds, and in a few short years the "household of the dead" was soon forgotten. A few days ago, workmen who were engaged in digging a cellar for the new tobacco warehouse, which is to be erected on that spot, discovered the bones of those who had been buried POLICE PROCEEDINGS .- Wednesday, Oct. 29. there many years. MASQUERADE BALL .- It will be seen, by the advertisement in our columns, this morning, that Mr. Coriell will give a grand masquerade ball, at Masonic Temple, to-morrow night. This promises to be one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind ever given in Louisville, and those who delight in such amusement should hasten to seize the present opportunity.

We learn from the Evansville Journal, that the D. B. Campbell, on Monday, 50 DOZEN PRIME BUCK GAUNTLETS AT brought up, from Henderson, some twentyfive or thirty prisoners, who had been captured in Union county, by Major Holloway, and in other parts of Kentucky. These, with the fifteen brought down from Owens boro, on Sunday, were sent to Indianapolis.

THEATER .- Mr. Booth had a very fine audience last night, to witness his impersonation of "Pescara in the Apostate. The drama was well put on the stage, and performed with fine effect. This evening we are to have "Macbeth," and the bare announcement, no doubt, will fill the house.

MAKING THEM PAY FOR IT .- The Federbutions to the amount of $35,000 on the rebels of Caseyville, and within a radius of ten miles of the town, to reimburse Union men for the losses they have sustained from

The nice little story of the capture of one hundred and fifty rebels, by Lieut. Wilkins and four others, as published in the Journal on Tuesday, turns out to be a "grapevine" yarn, imposed upon somebody who supplied the Journal with it.

THE GUERRILLAS AT HARTFORD .- The New Albany Ledger, of the 29th, says that the guerrillas from Morgan's and Johnson's commands who took possession of Hartford, Ohio county, Kentucky, on Saturday, did not extend their incursion but a few miles. nearer the Ohio river than that town. A courier arrived at Owensboro, on Monday morning, with the information that all the rebels left Hartford on Straday night, going in the direction of Russellville. MONITOR AGAIN TRIUMPHANT .- When the Monitor won the great fight with the Merrimac, she was considered a big thing, but it is now conceded that the new Moni tor (hat), just introduced by Green & Green, corner Main and Fourth, is the biggest thing now circulating. Call early.

Glazebrook, Brother & Co., No. 530 Main street, between Fifth and Sixth, continue to keep a large stock of groceries, consisting, in part, of three hundred bags Rio coffce, 50 hhds prime New Orleans and Portorice sugar, Lovering's, erushed, powdered and granulated sugar, New York and Boston syrup in barrels, half-barrels and kegs; mackerel, in barrels, half-barrels and kits; raisins, sardines, candy, candles, soap and starch, tobacco, cigars, cordage, wooden ware, indigo, pepper, spice, alum, copperas and brimstone; 150 kegs prime country lard, and many other articles too numerous to mention, which they are selling at lowest market rates for cash.

WHOLESALE MILLINERY GOODS, - The branch here of Messrs. Otis & Co., 406 Broadway, New York, are daily receiving specials in the millinery line, including Azeline, Vesuve, and Capucine ribbons and flowers; white-edged velvet ribbons; the Monitor, Imperatrice, and several other new styles of hats. Their stock being especially selected for the Louisville market, and selling at Eastern rates, offers partieular inducments to milliners and merchants. Their house here is at 516 Main street, between Fifth and Sixth.

J. M. Armstrong, the great clothier, on Main street, opposite the National Hotel, has now in store a magnificent stock of men's and boys' fashionable clothing and furnishing goods. Also a full stock of officers' uniforms, negligee suita, over-coats, vests, gauntlets, gloves, under-wear, shirts, Order of Major General Rosecrans, Congratulating his Army on the Victory at Corinth.

HEADQ'TERS ARMY OF THE MISSISSIPPI, 3D DIVISION, DISTRICT WEST TENNESSEE CORINTH, MISS., Oct. 25th, 1862. GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 151.

Army of the Third Division of the District of West Tennessee:
The preliminary announcement of the re sults of the great battle of Corinth, was given to you on the battle-field by myself, in person. I then proclaimed to you that "they were badly beaten at all points, and had fied, leaving their dead and wound-ed on the field." When I told you to replenish your cartridge boxes and haversacks, snatch a sleep after two days' fight-ing and two nights of watching and movements, and be ready by the morning's dawn, to follow the retreating foe, my heart beat high with pride and pleasure at the round and joyful response from your toil-worn and battle-stained ranks. Such a response was worthy such soldiers, and of the country and cause for which they fought. I have now received the reports of the various commanders I have now to te 1 John Korb..... you that the magnitude of the stake, the battle and the results, become more than ever Slaughter Bell's heirs..... apparent. Upon the issue of this fight de- Alfred Harris..... pended the possession of West Tennessee, and, perhaps, even the fate of operations in Kentucky. The entire available force of the T. W. Mery....... rebels in Mississippi, save a few garrisons and a small reserve, attacked you, commandT. Otto's heirs...... and a small reserve, attacked you, commanded by Van Dorn, Price, Villipigue, Rust, Armstrong, Maury and others in person.

They numbered, according to their own authorities, nearly forty thousand men—al
Mahoney's heirs. the 3d, punishing them terribly; and on Philip Fisher's heirs the 4th, in three hours after the infantry | W. C. Coyle's heirs went into action, they were completely beaten. You killed and buried 1,423 officers Catharine Frank...... and men; some of their most distinguished John Werner officers falling-among whom was the gal- J. Missart lant Col. Rogers, of the Second Texas, who M. Keane. bore their colors at the head of his storming | Garvin, Bell & Co..... column to the edge of the ditch of "Battery Robinett," where he fell. Their wounded, at the usual rate, must exceed five thousand. You took 2,268 prisoners; among whom are W. D. Reed's heirs...... 137 field officers, captains and subalterns, representing 53 Regiments of Infantry;

16 do Cavalry; 13 Batteries of Artillery;

7 Battalions; Making 69 regiments, 13 batteries, 7 bat-talions, besides several companies. You Pat Keenan..... captured 3,300 stands of small arms, 14 Dan'l McFatridge. stands of colors, 2 pieces of artillery, and a large quantity of equipments. You pursued his retreating columns forty miles in Dan'l McSweeny....... force with infantry, and sixty-nine miles with cavalry, and were ready to follow him Mahoney's heirs... to Mobile, if necessary, had you received orders. I congratulate you on these decisive results; in the name of the Govern-Martin Moore's heirs...... ment and the people, I thank you. I beg you to unite with me in giving humble thanks to the Great Master of all for our
W. B Reynolds.

It would be to me a great pleasure to Edgar Needhal signalize in this General Order those whose John Dunlop... gallant deeds are recorded in the various John S. Lytle's heirs. reports; but their number forbids, I would only say that to Generals Hamilton, Stan-Missionary Society ley, McArthur, and Davies, to General Oglesby and Colonel Mizener, and the brigade and regimental commanders under them, I offer my thanks for the gallant and able manner in which they have performed their several duties. To the regimental comman-sent my thanks for their gallantry on the battle-field and in the pursuit. I desire especially to offer my thanks to General Davies and his division, whose magnificent Pat Joyce. fighting on the 3d more than atones for all that was lacking on the 4th. To all the R. K. White ... officers and soldiers of this army, who J. R. Pirtle. bravely fought, I offer my heartfelt thanks for their noble behavior, and pray that God and their country may add to the rewards which flow from the consciousness of duty performed, and that the time may edily come when, under the flag of a nation one and indivisible, benign peace may again smile on us amid the endearments of home and family.

But our victory has cost us the lives of 815 brave officers and soldiers, besides the wounded. Words of praise cannot reach those who died for their country in this battle, but they console and encourage the living. The memory of the brave Hackel-man, the chivalrous Kirby Smith, the true and noble Colonels Thrush, Baker, and Miles, and Captain Guy C. Ward, with many others, live with us and in the memory of a free people, while history will inscribe their names among its heroes.

Sewing Machine WARRANTED THE BEST IN THE MARKET. Elias Howe, Jr., and S. H. Roper's Combined Patents. traight-Line Movements, Original Transverse Shut tle, and Periphery Clamp Feed-Wheel. tle, and Periphery Clamp Feed-Wheel.

THESE SEWING MACHINES COMBINE THE most recent improvements, are nearly noiseless when in operation, run with the greatest case and rapidity, and are better adapted for general purposes and family use than any other. They are not liable to get out of order, are exceedingly simple, and are made expressly for real practical utility; they do every variety of sewing, from the finest woven tissue to the heaviest woolon goods, both tailoring and fine leather work.
Any person may learn to operate them in a very short time. Any person may learn to operate them in a very snort time.

The great difficulty with all other old-style Machines is too much compiloation, requiring so much constant adjustment, and such an amount of mechanical skill and ingenuity to use them to advantage, as to render them of little comparative value.

But the Sawing Machines manufactured by Greenman & True are not liable to these objection, as any person, on even a moment's examination, will readily discover. They will do more and better work than any other Machine ever offered to the public, making the most beautiful lock-stitch, alike on both sides. Seed for an off-hand specimen of sewing upon any material you wish, and you will then see how it is done.
